A dark owl is perched on a bare tree branch against a deep blue night sky. The owl's eyes are visible as small, glowing points of light. The background shows the silhouettes of other branches and some distant foliage.

Home to over 370 species of birds, including migratory visitors from as far as Europe, and China, the park offers an unmatched experience of avian diversity. During the winter months, Bharatpur becomes a bustling haven for species like the Bar-headed Geese, Painted Storks, Pelicans, Ducks, and a variety of raptors and waders.
